

[illegible]

Therefore the object of the present invention is to provide a suitable analysis method and an apparatus for carrying out same, by means of which the golf swing analysis can be implemented very precisely, quickly and inexpensively.

- a plurality of, for example three, measurement value pick-ups which are positioned on the human body, preferably at the spinal column;

- the measurement value pick-ups are coupled to a data processing apparatus which processes the recorded measurement values;

- measurement value comparative data from other experimentees are stored in the data processing apparatus; and

20